Changing the world, one letter at a time...

Helvetica is a documentary film about typography, graphic design and global visual culture. It looks at the proliferation of one typeface as part of a larger conversation about the way type affects our lives. An exploration of urban spaces and the type that inhabits them, Helvetica invites us to take a second look at the thousands of words we see every day.

Interviewees in Helvetica include some of the most illustrious and innovative names in the design world: Erik Spiekermann, Matthew Carter, Massimo Vignelli, Wim Crouwel, Hermann Zapf, Neville Brody, Stefan Sagmeister, Michael Bierut, David Carson, Paula Scher, Jonathan Hoefler, Tobias Frere-Jones, Experimental Jetset, Michael C. Place, Norm, Alfred Hoffmann, Mike Parker, Bruno Steinert, Otmar Hoefer, Leslie Savan, Rick Poynor, and Lars Müller.

★★★★★ "A thoroughly engaging and gleefully funny investigation into the world's most ubiquitous typeface. This is one of the wittiest, most diligently researched, slyly intelligent and quietly captivating documentaries of the year." — Time Out London

"Blissful...the real achievement of the picture is the way it sharpens your eye in general and makes connections between form and content, and between art and life." — Chicago Tribune

"Beautiful cinematography, a kickass soundtrack, and one quotable interview after another. Helvetica is truly a work of art." — Austin Chronicle

DVD extra features: 95 minutes of bonus interviews, English & German subtitles.

A comparison of the letter 'y' from two different font families. Both letters are rendered in a large, bold black font. The letter 'y' on the left is from the font 'Helvetica', and the letter 'y' on the right is from the font 'Arial'. The main difference is the shape of the descender: in Helvetica, it is a simple vertical line ending in a small hook, while in Arial, it has a more complex, flared shape. A small red circle highlights the junction where the stem meets the descender for each letter.

The first Roman type designed by Claude Garamond was used in an edition of the Erasmus book Paraphrase in Elegantiarum Libros Laurentii Vallae published in 1530. The Roman design was based on an Aldus Manutius type, De Aetna, cut in 1455 by Francesco Griffio. After Claude Garamond died in 1561, most of his punches and matrices were acquired by Christophe Plantin from Antwerp, the Le Be type foundry and the Frankfurt foundry Egenolff-Berner.^[4] The only complete set of the original Garamond dies and matrices is at the Plantin-Moretus Museum, in Antwerp, Belgium. The term Garamond is today mostly applied to Garamond's designs for the Latin alphabet. Garamond designed type for the Greek alphabet, but these, the glamorous and fluid Grecs du roi, are very different to his Latin designs: they mimic the elegant handwriting of scribes and contain a vast variety of ligatures and alternate glyphs to achieve this. As these are quite impractical for modern printing, several 'Garamond' releases such as Adobe's contain Greek designs that are either a compromise between Garamond's upright Latin designs and his slanted Greek ones or primarily inspired by his Latin designs.

Giambattista Bodoni was born on 16 February 1740 at Saluzzo in Savoy (now the Piedmont region of Italy). He came from a printmaking background, his father and grandfather both being in that trade.^[3] He worked for a time in Rome as an apprentice in the Roman Catholic Church's Propaganda Fide printing house. There, it was said, he impressed his superiors so much with his eagerness to learn, studiousness in mastery of ancient languages and types, and energy of effort, that he was allowed to place his own name on his first books, a Coptic Missal and a version of the Tibetan alphabet.^[3]

A photograph of the Bauhaus building in Dessau, Germany. The building is a large, modernist structure with a dark grey or black facade. A prominent feature is a vertical white sign with the word "BAUHAUS" written in a bold, sans-serif font. Below the main entrance, there is a large white letter "E". COPYRIGHT 1939, THE COCA-COLA COMPANY

Thirst stops here

The road maps of the world are dotted with happy places to pause. And ice-cold Coca-Cola is there to make a pause the pause that refreshes. Familiar red coolers everywhere signal you to refresh yourself and be off to a fresh start.

INVITING YOU TO PAUSE... REFRESH

When the necktie-handkerchief-fruitcake buying starts to get to you, put a holiday smile on your face with the real refreshing taste in a glass of Coke.
For 84 years Coca-Cola has brightened the holiday season better than any other soft drink.
That's one reason they call it the real thing.

It's the real thing.
Coke.

Hoe kunnen wij je helpen?

Wat heb je nodig? Dàt is ons uitgangspunt. Een grafisch ontwerper, DTP-specialist, webdesigner of developer voor korte of lange tijd? Een individuele coaching of grafische training waarvan je zélf de agenda bepaalt? Een technische screening van je medewerkers of sollicitanten? Typografics heeft het in huis. Je kiest à la carte welk profiel, welke grafische dienst of welke opleiding jij wil. Of we naar je toe komen, of we vanuit Hamme aan je project werken. 100% flexibel, 100% kwaliteit.

Grafische studio

Typografics beschikt over een eigen grafische studio. Heb je manschappen nodig, maar geen ruimte, materiaal of grafische kennis om hen aan het werk te zetten? Geen probleem. We werken met 100% up-to-date materiaal aan jouw project. Gewoon, vanuit onze studio in Hamme.

Meer over onze grafische studio

Grafische interventie

Een onmogelijke deadline, extra werk of een tijdelijk personeelstekort? Typografics helpt je uit de nood. Onze vormgevers en developers hebben genoeg aan een korte briefing of een ruwe schets om uit de startblokken te schieten. Wij sturen je een vaste medewerker, voor jouw 'freelance' opdracht.
